We want to reinvent our yard with new priorities on edibles, pollinators and natives. We want it to be a refuge not just for us, but for the birds, the butterflies, and our friends, children and grandchildren.Julie has given us fresh ways of viewing our property and be able to actually utilize all of it (not just the house) to enrich our lives and the lives of others. Here is a quote form the book: "Home is the place where you feel safe and find refuge. Like being hugged by a loved one, encircling your house so that it feels enclosed brings a comforting sense of security to your property. Enclosing arms - walls,fences, screens, and hedges - mark and guard the territory around your home against intrusion from outside, while offering sanctuary and seclusion within". p. 106Blessings,Sue0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. The book itself is wonderful, I purchased it as a birthday giftBy Kindle CustomerThe book itself is wonderful, I purchased it as a birthday gift. I would have given it a 5 but it arrived with the book cover torn and wrinkled. There was no packaging inside to keep it from moving. I could have purchased the same book at menards with no damage.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Home OutsideBy Jude MoThis book is really great for getting ideas for "outdoor rooms" which is something I love. If you can't find something you like in this book, you probably are really hard to please. I truly would recommend it to anyone who loves the outdoors, and likes relaxing, and spending time in the great outdoors.

An Outside-the-Box Guide to Outdoor Living. Let's face it: most of us have the confidence to improve the inside of our homes with a fresh coat of paint, new rugs, furniture, and fixtures. But when it comes to the outside of our most prized possession, we don't know where to start. That's where Julie Moir Messervy's Home Outside comes in. The acclaimed landscape designer walks the reader through the process of turning any property into the home outside you've always dreamed of. Focusing on key concepts like Finding Your Comfort Zone and Placing the Pieces, Messervy presents breathtaking plans for remarkable front and back lawns, entertainment areas, and contemplative retreats, as well as innovative ways to create a better flow between the inside and outside of a house.
